

A Journey to a New Kind of Life

The environmental challenges of today are causing all sorts of people to rethink our lifestyles. Climate change may actually be a symptom of a society that has lost its way.

Two thousand years ago a prophet from Nazareth drew people around him with a vision for a new kind of life.

This course invites us to re-examine the way that we are living and embark on a process of radical change. Working from our own personal stories, participants talk together about our relationship with the earth and its resources, with money, work, travel and neighbours and draw upon the wisdom of the scriptures and the life of Jesus' own community in the process.

The course lasts six weeks, is suitable for groups of 4-12 people and does not require any particular knowledge or skills to lead.

It is currently available in a pilot form until July 2008. Agora would appreciate feedback from those who use it.

You can download it free from here

http://www.agoraspace.org/document/pdf/document1002_5_1047.pdf

or request a hard copy by sending a cheque for £5 made to 'Project Agora' and sent to 50 Guest Ave, Emersons Green, Bristol BS16 7GA together with your name and address.